

Doug Bromage Named BC's Residential Construction Person of the Year

Nanaimo, B.C., January 28, 2009 — Doug Bromage, President of InSight Developments, was recently announced as the recipient of the 2nd annual BC's Residential Construction Person of the Year Award by BC Homes Magazine and is being featured in the January / February issue of the publication for his innovative approach to residential community development.

“The nominations we received for the 2nd annual award were all outstanding and highly qualified people. However, Doug Bromage best represents the criteria of leadership, strategic thinking, the pursuit of excellence and balanced workplace values. We are honoured to name him BC's Business Person of the Year in Residential Construction,” said Scott Whitemarsh, Publisher and Editor of BC Homes Magazine.

Doug Bromage joined InSight in 1993 to lead the development of one of Canada's premier lifestyle communities, Longwood, situated in the north end of Nanaimo. The community has since been recognized by the development industry through a host of awards including Project of the Year by CHBA Vancouver Island, British Columbia and Canada in 1997, 1999 and 2006. Since this undertaking, InSight has branched out to create other types of communities for a wide range of lifestyles. By the end of 2008, InSight will have developed over $250 million dollars in real estate throughout the Nanaimo Region.

InSight Developments will be hosting an Open House Reception this evening to celebrate this impressive honour and achievement, in addition to a move to their new Corporate Office and a formal welcoming of new members that have joined their team as they embark on a year of exciting projects ahead.

For more information, please contact:

Patricia Dunn
Dunn Public Relations
778-330-1490
patricia@dunnpr.com